

Welcome to Greenwood ALERT,

Our new monthly, on-line, News and information page, from Greenwood Emergency Vehicles.

President's Column

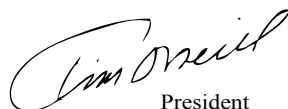

It's been a busy summer around Greenwood with a lot of GREAT things in the works.

On August 4th, E-One was sold to American Industrial Partners, a New York based investment firm. AIP is a leader in their business and owns several high profile American manufacturing firms. Under AIP's leadership, there are already some very positive changes going on at E-One, and we expect many more to follow. Private ownership means that a company can be managed by sound business practices, as opposed to the public company mentality of worrying about the stock price every day! You can invest for the future, instead of worrying about what Wall Street will think of you at the end of the month. I wish this had happened years ago! We look for great things out of E-One/AIP in the years to come. Check out www.aip4.com for further information about E-One's new parents!

We've also been delivering a lot of trucks this summer. Large orders from Boston and Providence have recently been delivered, but of equal importance are those customers who buy one truck at a time! Those customers are the backbone of our business, and have been for the last 30 years (well, almost.... next February 22nd will be 30 years!) .

On a final note, September 19th will be one of the most exciting days ever at Greenwood! We will be unveiling our 2009 Maxim Custom Pumper at our annual open house on that day. Assembled by our team of craftsmen, you'll want to be here to see this innovative truck with many of the features you've been asking for. It will be constructed on a Spartan Furion chassis, equipped with a Hale 1500 GPM pump, and will have a stainless steel rescue style body. Enclosed ladder and suction storage areas will be just two of its many features. Some of our customers have expressed a desire for stainless steel as a body material, and now you can have it. Stainless or Aluminum. Your choice, as it should be. And locally made as well, by people you know and trust!

I hope to see you here on the 19th!

President
